

North West surveying practice expands into Birmingham

A chartered surveying practice has launched a new office in Birmingham.

Proximity has recruited surveyor Robert Rankine as associate director from AA Projects to lead the new set up at the Arca building in Temple Row.

The firm is headquartered in Altrincham, Greater Manchester, and was launched in 2022 by directors Mike Scanlan and Tom Kibblewhite.

It works with developers on property projects across the UK, identifying and mitigating the risk associated with rights of light, party walls, daylight, sunlight and solar glare amenity impacts. Its client roster includes HBD, Moda and Property Alliance Group.

Want more business news straight to your inbox?

BusinessLive is your home for business news from around the country – and you can stay in touch with all the latest news through our email alerts.

You can sign up to receive morning news bulletins from every region we cover and to weekly email bulletins covering key economic sectors from manufacturing to technology and enterprise. And we'll send out breaking news alerts for any stories we think you can't miss.

Visit our email preference centre to sign up to all the latest news from BusinessLive.

Mr Scanlan said: “Since launching Proximity in 2022, we have always been ambitious about our growth. Our expansion into Birmingham is a key part of that wider strategy.

“While Tom and I are based in Manchester, we advise on developments across the country so the new Birmingham office provides a more central base while bringing us closer to new opportunities in the city.

“It’s an exciting time for the business and it’s fantastic to have Rob on board as we look to grow our client base in the Midlands.”