Doing business with Russia: For big international brands it's not always black and white