Millions of green jobs are open to people with the right skills. The problem is many don’t have them