

Bank deals in the offing as TSB turns down the Co-op

C
0-0P Bank today confirmed weekend reports that it put in a bid for rival TSB, opening up the prospect of other deals in the sector.

While that offer, to TSB's Spanish owner Sabadell was rejected, others now seem possible.

With the big banks again making big profits, but cutting branches, reasons for the second-tier lenders to unite seem to grow, say analysts.

Low interest rates have hit margins and a new breed of app-based banking has taken away at least some custom.

Sabadell said "this is not a transaction that we wish to explore at this moment". The deal was put at £1 billion.
