Camden's 580,000 sq ft Hawley Wharf development to open for Bank Holiday weekend long-awaited 580,000 sq ft "sister" to the recently-revamped Camden Market is to open on Friday in time for the Bank Holiday weekend.

The canal-side Hawley Wharf development, owned by billionaire entrepreneur Teddy Sagi's investment firm LabTech, will offer a Curzon cinema, a host of indie retail and leisurebrands and 10 foodie restaurants including HotBox and BaoziInn.

Brands taking up spaces include including streetwear brand Marbek, in a collaboration with MrSneaker, skate brand Scum, 100% vegan and natural skincare brand SknFed, and hairdresser Butchers Salon.

There will also be a new offering, Camden Boxing Club, from Fitzrovia's Rathbone Boxing Club's operator, The Boxing House.
