Wagamama owner The Restaurant Group names new chairman

W

agamama-owner The Restaurant Group has named former Cadbury's finance chief Ken Hanna as its new chairman.

The London-listed group, which is also behind Garfunkel's and Frankie & Benny's, will succeed Debbie Hewitt, who will step down at the end of the year to chair the Football Association (FA).

TRG's Graham Clemett said Hanna has "the right breadth of commercial and leadership experience" for the role.

Hanna , who is an experienced boardroom executive, will take up the role from January 1.

TRG had been burning through £5.5 million a month in lockdown and has slashed 3000 jobs and permanently closed over 200 sites since the pandemic hit.

READ MORE

- Virgin Wines CEO promises firm will not run out of wine at Christmas
- FTSE 100 Live: Budget reaction, Royal Dutch Shell and Lloyds results
- Spain's Renfe plans to launch high-speed London to Paris rail service
- SPONSORED

Why fashion fans should visit the McArthurGlen designer outlet