

BP profits, digital training and Manchester's regeneration

On today's episode, Ian King picks through BP's annual underlying replacement cost profit, which has come in at £23bn for last year – a record high.

US networks giant Cisco has announced plans to train 10 million people in digital skills.

And Ian is joined by journalist turned communications professional Andy Spinoza, who discusses 40 years of regeneration for Manchester in his new book.

:: Listen and subscribe to The Ian King Business Podcast here.

Advertisement