

Building the next generation of fighter jets, and why business leaders are downbeat

Ian King's guests include Arsenal chief executive Vinai Venkatesham, who speaks about celebrating football through art; Herman Claesen, from BAE Systems, has the latest on Tempest – a joint programme to build the next generation of fighter jets; Catherine Pierre, UK head of commercial banking at JP Morgan, who talks about its research into mid-sized UK companies; chief executive of Detected, Liam Chennells, discussing its business verification platform; plus Gavin Jackson, chief executive of Oxbotica – the Oxford-based specialist in autonomous vehicle software.

:: Listen and subscribe to The Ian King Business Podcast here.

Advertisement