

EU's planned Russian oil ban, soaring shop prices and Crossrail gets launch date

On today's episode, Ian King has the latest from the European Commission president on plans for a "complete" ban on oil imports from Russia in the latest round of sanctions over the invasion of Ukraine.

He's also joined by the chief executive of the British Retail Consortium, Helen Dickinson, after figures reveal shop prices are at their highest level in a decade.

And Crossrail – which will be known as the Elizabeth Line on London's transport network – finally gets its opening date.

:: Listen and subscribe to The Ian King Business Podcast here.

Advertisement