

Recession fears, improved retail sales and the latest on house prices

On today's episode, Ian King speaks to Simon French, from Panmure Gordon, about fears of a recession and improved retail sales.

Richard Donnell – executive director of research at Zoopla – discusses a pick-up in housing activity.

And Ian interviews Amine Raji, the founder and chief executive of Spore.bio, about a device that can detect bacteria in food, drink, and cosmetic products.

Listen and subscribe to the Ian King Business Podcast here

Advertisement