

Transatlantic travel, skills shortage and cricket team to go green

Flights between the UK and the United States return in a major boost for transatlantic trade and tourism – as Ian King finds out how the West Indies cricket team aims to go green by offsetting its carbon emissions.

:: Listen and subscribe to The Ian King Business Podcast here

Advertisement